

Thank you!

Christmas is just around the corner and the year is slowly coming to an end. The holiday season gives us the opportunity to think about the past year and be thankful for many things. For me, the health and happiness of my family and friends is the most important thing. Another important point is the joy and satisfaction of bringing forth quality scientific journals.

However, we at Quintessence Publishing can only do this with your support in the familiar way that is appreciated by our readers. On behalf of the entire publishing house, I would like to thank the editors-in-chief Prof. Sculean, Prof. Petersen, and Prof. Banerjee and the entire Editorial Board for their excellent and productive work. Of course, I would also like to thank our authors who, in addition to their main profession of dentistry, take the time again and again to share their studies and research results, reviews and case reports with us all. The commitment of all participants enables us to offer you continual learning at a high level.

We will continue to do this next year with combined efforts and a new publication concept. As already announced by Christian Haase in his editorial in OHPD 5/2019, OHPD will become an Open Access Journal starting January 1st, 2020. We, the publisher and the Editors-in-Chief, are looking forward to this new challenge and would like to invite you all to become part of the new and even better OHPD. Let's do it!

I wish you all a beautiful and peaceful Christmas season, and a happy, healthy New Year.
