

Introducing IJP's Next Editor-in-Chief

Irena Sailer, Prof Dr Med Dent

Irena Sailer received her dental degree from the University of Tübingen, Germany in 1997 and received a postgraduate education in oral surgery and prosthodontics at the University of Zurich (Switzerland) in 1997–2003. In 2003 she became faculty at the university Clinic of Fixed and Removable Prosthodontics and Dental Material Sciences and in 2010 she obtained a Private Docent degree. In 2007 she was a visiting scholar at the Department of Biomaterials and Biomimetics, New York University (New York, New York, USA). Since 2009, she has held an adjunct associate professorship at the Department of Preventive and Restorative Sciences, University of Pennsylvania (Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, USA), and since 2013, she has been the Head of the Division of Fixed Prosthodontics and Biomaterials at the University of Geneva, Switzerland. Dr Sailer is a Specialist for Prosthodontics (Swiss Society for Reconstructive Dentistry) and holds a certificate of focused activities in Dental Implantology (WBA) of the Swiss Society for Dentistry.

She is a member of the board of directors of the European Association for Osseointegration and the Swiss Society of Reconstructive Dentistry, and she is a member of the Education Committee of the International Team for Implantology (ITI). In addition, she is an active member of the European Academy of Esthetic Dentistry and fellow of the ITI, as well as an active fellow of the Greater New York Academy of Prosthodontics. Dr Sailer is the author or co-author of more than 90 peer-reviewed scientific manuscripts, 6 book chapters, and the monograph Color in Dentistry: A Clinical Guide to Predictable Esthetics (Quintessence, 2017). She holds several patents for esthetic coatings of dental/medical devices.

doi: 10.11607/ijp.2018.5.bio